ONLINE GAMBLING LANDSCAPE

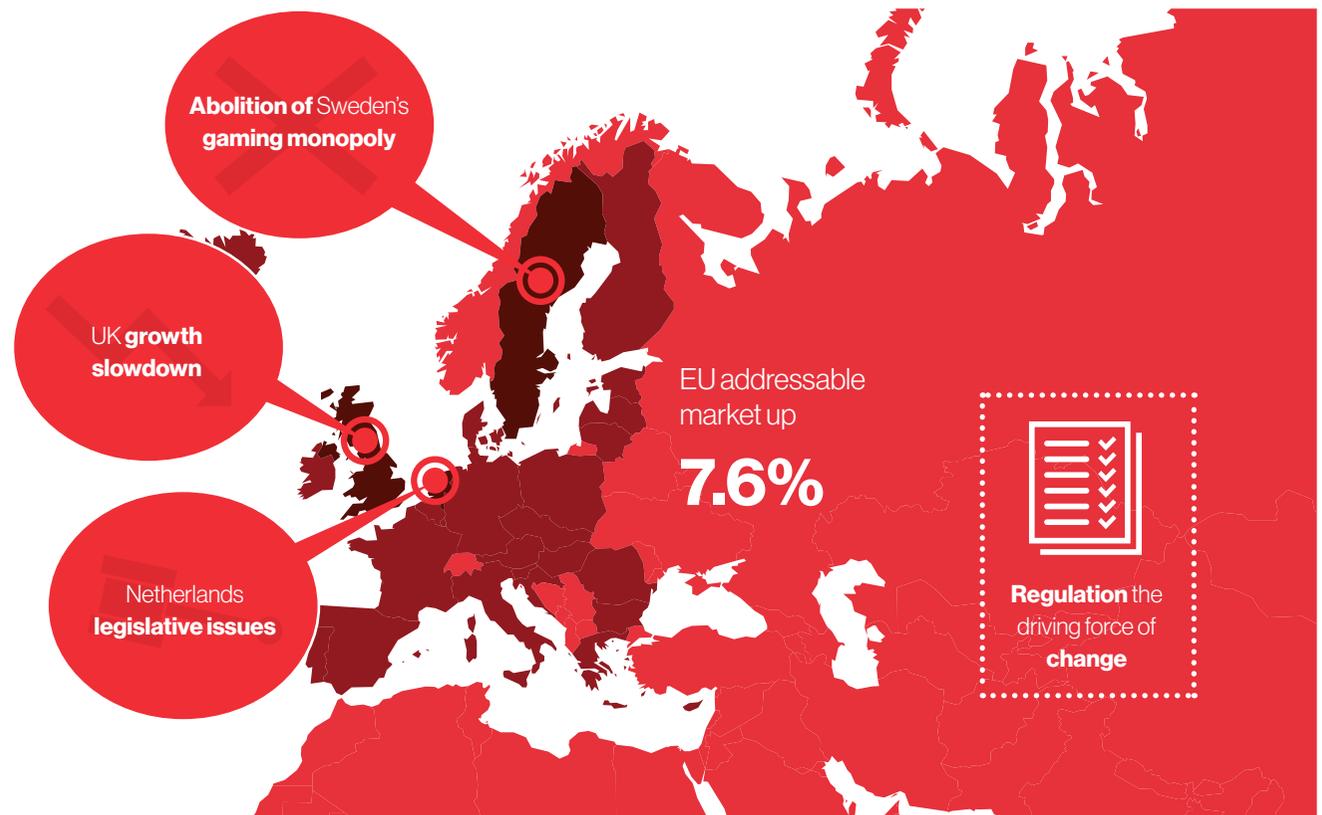

THE ONLINE GAMBLING LANDSCAPE

The global online gambling market is constantly evolving, with new regulations continuing to be the driving force behind these changes.

The European sector in particular has witnessed its fair share of regulatory developments in recent months, including the planned abolition of Sweden's monopoly online gambling system and ongoing legislative issues in the Netherlands.

However, the market is still showing signs of growth. According to research firm Eilers & Krejci, revenue from addressable Europe was up 8.6% year-on-year to €7.2bn in H1 2017, while gaming growth was strongest in newer regulated markets, such as Italy and Spain.

Growth in the UK – which is by far the largest regulated European market – appears to be slowing down somewhat, but it remains a key market to watch over the coming months, as it awaits its fate from a number of regulatory investigations.
